

Timothy J. Kindler

Tim is currently the Director of Corporate Competitive Intelligence at Eastman Kodak Company, winner of the Society of Competitive Intelligence (SCIP) Team Excellence Award in 2001. He has been in Competitive Intelligence (CI) for fifteen years and has directed Corporate CI at Kodak since 1998. Prior to his career shift into CI, he held a number of different positions in information systems and equipment manufacturing at Kodak. Tim joined Kodak in 1982.

Tim was elected to the board of directors of SCIP for a term running from 2004-2006. He served as President in 2005. Prior to joining the board of directors, Tim was active in the Upstate New York Chapter of SCIP and served on the SCIP Nominating Committee for three years. He has authored articles for SCIP.Online, Competitive Intelligence Magazine and the CI Foundation book series. Tim was a recipient of the SCIP Fellows Award in 2009.

Tim has spoken on various topics in CI at several SCIP annual conventions and the SCIP Best Practices Forum on "Managing a CI Function." He has been a guest lecturer on CI topics at the University of Notre Dame, the University of Wisconsin, the University of Rochester, and the University of Georgia.

Tim was a member of the Conference Board Council on Competitive Analysis from 1998-2006. He served on the council Executive Committee from 1999-2002, holding the position of Council Chairman in 2000-2001.

Tim received a B.S. degree in Mathematics/Computer Science from Villanova University in 1982 and an MBA from the William E. Simon Graduate School of Business Administration, University of Rochester in 1987. Tim completed the Principles of Marketing Research Certificate program through the University of Georgia in December 2006.